Abstract

The invention concerns an ink fountain with a blade support (19) wherein said blade support comprises several adjacent sections (2) moveable by setting (13) to vary the distance between means (2) and the circumference of sections an ink fountain cylinder. The ink fountain further comprises a blade (11) interposed between sections and the circumference of the ink fountain cylinder and having a ridge for maintaining a specific thickness of ink on the ink fountain cylinder, the blade (11) resting directly on said sections (2) and being fixed relative to said blade support.

15

10

5